Universal to Showcase Comprehensive Service Offerings as Major Exhibitor at JET EXPO 2006 in Moscow

Houston, TX – Universal Weather and Aviation, Inc. will premier a major exhibit at the JET EXPO 2006 international business aviation exhibition, to be presented at Moscow's Crocus Expo from 20-22 September. Highlighting the company's broad array of industry-leading services, Universal[®] and FERAS (Far East Russia Aircraft Services), a member of the UVglobal Network[®], will be demonstrating a unique "start-to-finish" support strategy for the rapidly expanding Russia-CIS aviation market.

The Universal[®] "Success From the Word GO" commitment will be on prominent display in Exhibit C105, as it demonstrates how the company's wealth of service options give Russia-CIS operators the flight support and ground services they need for successful trip facilitation.

"Whether it's a single flight plan or complete trip support, Universal[®] offers its clients a complete range of service options to meet their particular requirements," said Justine Finnett, Vice President, Sales and Marketing. "We are committed to building strong relationships in the Russia and CIS markets with world-class client support."

"Our unrivaled customer service, qualified aviation personnel and one of the largest ground support networks in the world -- the UVglobal Network[®] that includes FERAS -- help our clients achieve unmatched mission successes every day," Finnett added. "FERAS is dedicated to true VIP ground support and is the only company who can provide this level of quality across such a broad region, which includes Russia and the countries of the C.I.S. This is critical for ensuring a quality passenger experience from the moment they reach the airport to the time they reach their destination."

The Universal[®] exhibit will offer interactive demonstrations of the company's enhanced online services and, most importantly, face-to-face discussions with Universal[®] experts. Some of the capabilities and services featured at Exhibit C105 include:
